

Dave's renovation dream

Nine days before Easter, Dave decided to go through the glistening forest to hide some Easter Eggs for his brother, Timmy and sister, Rozana. But Dave loved Easter eggs so he ate all of the magical Easter egg. Dave felt really mean for doing that so he decided to buy tickets to watch the finals for the most famous, intense world cup in history. When the game was over Dave felt extraordinarily kind for doing that, his brother Timmy and sister Rozana loved the game very much.

Dave wanted to be even kinder, so he taken the decision to sell lots of light, colourful, different sizes newspaper and magazines for poor people to rise money. But he wanted to be even kinder so he decided to do a great gesture for the neighbourhood beach. On one day him and his family went to the beach and collected the rubbish from the shore. But after a while Dave decided to fly on a bright white aeroplane to South America to help children in need.

Once Dave arrived in South America he decided to buy a yellow straw hut, but as the beautiful days go along Dave decided to build a massive yellow wooden tub to put in some cold fresh water so the poor people could stay hydrated. When the poor people saw the wooden tube, they raced to the cold fresh water, but soon they ran out of water, so the people begged Dave to put in some more cold fresh water. Dave said no, because he had one more surprise left which was a strong red brick house, as he was tired because we had to build strong, see thru glass, with a red wooden door and brick roof and brick chimney. Dave's gorgeous days in South Africa came to an end, so he decided to buy tickets for a big blue aeroplane for America. When Dave arrived in America he made the decision to buy tickets to watch the Lakers and Pistons basketball game. When the game was over, Dave loved America so much that he chose to buy a house and live there forever.

Suddenly, Dave realised that he could get tickets to go to Disneyland. So he got the entry pass and went to Disneyland. Once in the park Dave wishes to ride the tall roller coaster. Bought some Cotton candy.

One hour later he was starving again, so he got a corn dog and cold fresh water. After eating, Dave got on a spinning roller coaster and other attractions in the park.

From that on Dave was living in America for the rest of his life, happily ever.
